Relief Requested and Argument

Describe what you want the Court to order. In detail, tell the Court what you are asking for and why you believe you should be granted your request(s).

2. The Respondent respectfully requests that the Court strike improper , duplicative, and irrelevant filings submitted by the opposing party in this matter The opposing party has repeatedly filed substantially similar documents without new legal or factual basis These repeated filings have unnecessarily burdened the Court and delayed resolution of this case The opposing party continues to re-litigate issues that have already been addressed or are pending before the Court The opposing party has filed documents across multiple proceedings after unfavorable rulings Several filings were submitted in bad faith, including filings made on court holidays The volume and timing of these filings demonstrate misuse of the judicial process rather than good-faith litigation The opposing party has raised issues outside the scope of this case and beyond his legal standing The opposing party has attempted to introduce irrelevant and prejudicial material unrelated to the issues before this Court These actions appear intended to harass, overwhelm, or gain leverage rather than resolve legitimate disputes The Respondent is not seeking to restrict lawful access to the Court Nevada courts have inherent authority to manage their dockets and strike improper filings Nevada courts may impose filing restrictions for for vexatious litigation Conduct the opposing party' s conduct meets the standard for vexatious litigation These safeguards are necessary to prevent delay affecting the minor child
