No, we would not force her to live with him. You are very welcome.

Ok thank you for clearing that up we have no issues with fixing our problems. We just needed to confirm that Eva wouldn't just be placed with or forced to go with him. Thank you for the response.

My question is are you going to place Eva with him even if we fix everything.

Hi Donovan,

I appreciate your concern. He is Eva's legal father. We need evidence of the restraining orders in order to consider them and to honor them. I would be happy to review any protective orders when provided.

So with Justin blades in court it brings up many concerns for both me and Megan. Megan had multiple restraining orders against him for abuse and other reasons. Eva isn't safe with him at all. She has never met she knows about him and she has said she don't want to meet him. Why is he involved and do we need to be concerned of Eva being given up to him.

So I requested the drug tests at the va. They put me in another program towards keeping my sobriety on top of my outpatient rehab ill have more details on it on Wednesday which is also when they will start my drug tests which will be every Monday Weds and Friday like requested. My councilor also provided the letter attached as a photo to help with verification.

I gave the military justice team Natasha's info so you may not have gotten this letter. The military justice team sent a letter to Natasha explaining the programs im in currently at the va and offered to help anyway they can. There number is 7759902137. They can send ya a copy of the letter if you never received it.

Perhaps we can have another phone call to discuss that today at 4?

I will absolutely address with the foster parents that Lexi needs her allergy meds.

I will never have an issues with you advocating for your children and what you see fit as long as you are appropriate in your requests. We may disagree at times, but I believe and hope that we can work together respectfully and with the same intention of your children's wellbeing.

Ok, I'm sorry for the hard-to-hear phone call and gibberish texts. Now I can type at least as to what was going on. We went over leaving the kids with Eva so I will skip that part of it. As for what Sierra was saying sitting across the table from my wife. Megan heard tell her sister and someone else "That's the mom the kids were taken because they both use drugs. My wife still sitting across the table from Sierra, Sierra whispered to another person at the party no clue who it was but my wife heard Sierra saying I was nothing but a creeper cause I was up in the play area looking for my kids and once found hanging out with them. These aren't that big of a deal but it did make the party overall very uncomfortable and what they are saying isn't true I was just spending time with my girls while I could and my wife doesn't use drugs at all and I've been sober over a month now and can prove it. Then last night while I was on the phone with the kids Alexis was coughing really bad so I asked her if she had been taking her allergy meds. She immediately started crying and said no one would remind her of anything she is expected to handle it all by herself. So she has been coughing nonstop which sounds like she has been smoking for the last 20 years as a 9-year-old all because she hasn't taken her allergy meds. This part just broke my heart cause I can't do anything but sit by and watch. Hopefully this is a little bit easier to understand.

They were talking right in front of wife calling me creeper cause I was hanging out with the kids. As for strangers I don't know who they but they were all there for Lexi's party. I'm not that upset it just made very uncomfortable to even be there for her birthday and I'm trying to text this from work. We didn't think much of this until Eva asked about it as well.

One of times they were left in car with the 2 year for good half hour or so and at lexis b day both infants were left with just me Megan and Eva. When I told Eva her I uncle was there to say hello she told me no she had to watch the babies. Not to mention the shit they were saying to these strangers at the party about me and Megan. As for a party for lexi she had 2 friends at the party but there were 12 people.

So why is my oldest daughter being expected to watch the other children being fostered in that home. I have witnessed it myself on two occassion and Eva has brought it to my attention as well just as it's not her job to support my emotions it is not her to watch these other kids.
