Alexis Clark (DOB 2/24/14) -

Alexis is a healthy young girl, she is here for an EPSDT. She has a history of being allergic to bees/wasps and has had an epipen before but does not have one now. She takes no other medications, she has no history of surgeries and no other significant medical problems.

She states a recent history of lice , she states her grandma treated her with shampoo and combing. She states KK combed her as well. She has no other complaints.

On exam she does have some nits in near the base of her neck and on the back of the head, most of the rest of her scalp seems to have been cleared well. She will need to be combed again. She otherwise appears healthy.

We went through a mental health questionnaire and she scores moderately for anxiety and depression. I would like her to be assessed for therapy.

She has no current PCP, she was last seen at UNR Family Medicine around 2018, she is up to date on vaccines except for covid.

We got the results of her abdominal xray back today.

It states she has no stents in her abdomen or pelvis. It notes she has some stool build up but no other concerning findings. Im not really sure what type of procedure EvaKay had. It may have been a temporary stent that was removed the same day.

Evakay Baldes (DOB 10/19/09) -

EvaKay is a healthy young woman, she is here for an EPSDT. She has no history of allergies, surgeries, she takes no medications on a consistent basis and has no significant medical history.

She has concern for a tooth problem and occasional abdominal pain when doing core/ab exercises but otherwise states she is healthy.

On exam she does have an adult tooth growing near the base of her L upper canine. Neither tooth is tender or sensitive, there is no signs of infection. I would like her to follow up with a dentist for a routine check. Her sister had lice several weeks ago but Evakay's scalp and hair have nothing that I could see.

We went through a mood questionnaire in office and she demonstrates moderate to high depression. I would like her to be evaluated for therapy. She was previously established with Renown several years ago, she states she went to a doctors office last year but could not remember who it was with. She is behind on HPV9 vaccine and covid.
